THE EDDY IS A REAL REFRIGERATOR WITH SLATE-STONE SHELVES

Not an imitation. Not an experiment. Not a hollow sham. Not made to suit somebody's fad or fancy. Not made with open joints filled with cement to absorb grease and odors, and make your refrigerator a germ breeder.

But, made for what a real refrigerator is intended for, that is to keep food pure and sweet with the least amount of ice consistent to obtain a perfect circulation of pure, cold, dry air. The inside lining is air-tight; nothing can penetrate back of it to breed disease and germs.

A BEER TALK

GOOD BEER has great nutritive and tonic properties. At mealtimes it is now being largely consumed. These important facts have caused scientific and medical authorities to classify it as a food.

We believe that the same care and thoroughness exercised in the production of Beer should be followed in its sale as well. In Germany the brewing industry amounts to almost a national institution. The government encourages it. The people depend upon it. The result is that Germany, in common with all Beer and light wine drinking nations is free from drunkenness. The evils sometimes associated with Beer drinking do not come from the Beer itself, but occur only through over-indulgence or when Beer is sold amid improper environments. There is no harm in drinking

In deciding a suit over reservation lands, the United States Supreme Court has just held that any Indian with a drop of white blood in him is no longer an Indian, so to speak, but is of "mixed blood," and can sell his lands if he wants to, and it takes a lot of study to understand distinctions like this. In this country anybody with a drop of negro blood is classed as a negro, while in Mexico anyone who can prove he has a drop of white blood is a white man, no matter if he be as black as the ace of spades. In the political campaign now approaching we shall behold, as in its predecessors, men trying to get the Irish, German or Italian or Jewish vote by pretending that in their veins run drops of the vital fluid of these various races. One little drop of blood may make or mar a career, according to the prejudices of the community.

Both Prohibitionists and Liquor sellers will be equally interested in the opinion, which we print elsewhere, of Chief Justice Bartlett of the Court of Appeals in the Weiner case. It is now the established law that while it is illegal to personally solicit orders for liquor in a dry town, it is legal to advertise such beverages through the mails. If the case were otherwise, it would be what the court describes as "an extraordinary innovation in the criminal law." The courts are always loth to hold a man to be guilty of a crime in a locality which he never visited, as was seen when Roosevelt tried to have a newspaper publisher convicted of libel in a district where some of his papers happened to circulate. This particular decision will certainly have the effect of greatly stimulating the sale of liquor in dry towns and sincere and intelligent temperance people will begin to question the advisability of any town voting no licence. The man with a jug or quart bottle who entertains his cronies on a hay mow or some such place is just as efficient an ally of the Rum Demon as the saloon keeper.

Friends of the "uplift" have long advocated the abolition of the United States Senate on the ground that it does nothing but obstruct the will of the "people." Perhaps, when the pendulum of opinion starts to swing the other way, we shall develop a sentiment in favor of retaining the Senate and abolishing the House. The latter passed the Wilson anti-trust measures last week almost unanimously without the slightest notion of what they meant. The correspondent of the New York Evening Post, in spite of his great friendship for the Administration, is compelled by truth to say: "Some of the members of the House thought they meant one thing, some another, and others were frank to say they did not know what some of the provisions of the bills meant. They were truthful and frank about it, at any rate." This puts the whole burden upon the Senate of licking the bills into some sort of meaning. Now why did the House do this? Because the representatives believe their constituents demand that the trusts be swatted again. In our judgment, this notion is unfounded. There is no demand among the masses for harassing business men any further. The laws as the Republican administration left them are quite sufficient to restrain abuses, and Congressmen who have stabbed at they know not what are in for a surprise when the votes are counted next November.

Employers of labor have been receiving information blanks from the new Workmen's Compensation Commission. They are like the income tax blanks in the respect that it is necessary to call upon a lawyer and a soothsayer for help if one wishes to be sure that they are filled out properly. After the recipient has done his best and sends in the report he gets a notice saying that his application for insurance has been received, although he has made no such application. We like to see people hustle for business, but the State might learn from the experience of private firms that it does not boom trade to try to browbeat possible customers into giving orders. It is highly important, in order eventually to determine the size of premiums, to accumulate statistics, but such statistics will not be very valuable unless the blanks for reports are so constructed that there can be no misunderstanding regarding their meaning. It is impossible to procure any disinterested expert advice as to whether it is better for an employer to insure with the State, with a regular indemnity company, or in a mutual organization. This being so, it seems to us to be the part of good citizenship to choose one of the two latter opportunities, as a protest against the State going into any business which can as well be conducted by private enterprise.

THE SPEEDER.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Out on the great highways, where automobiles, horsemen and occasional pedestrians meet and pass very quickly, there's abundant opportunity for the display of courtesy or of utter indifference, and it is easy enough to tell where the line divides.

Automobilists who take their pleasures sanely, horsemen and pedestrians, who are least protected of all, are generally forced to make a showing of courtesy, whether they possess the genuine brand or not. For they never know when a great touring car may come tearing along as if it possessed the right of way and expected all others to hurry to cover; and so they carefully abide by the rules of the road, and if they lean either way, it is on the side of yielding over-much. And it is not so much that they want to yield as that they have a wholesome respect for their own safety.

As a matter of fact, careful users of the public roads think it a pity that they must be forced to yield so much to disturbers of the highway peace who do not stop to consider whether they have room to pass but just flash along, generally in safety, sometimes at serious cost, and always leaving a trail of discomfort in their hurrying path. For their riotous pace is very disturbing to quieter folk.

Sometimes the moderate riders are lost in a cloud of dust stirred up by the big cars wildly rushing ahead and entirely indifferent to consequences; and sometimes they are driven to the far side of the road in mingled fear and resentment. And again, they are forced from the highways entirely, back to the side roads, the back roads, the bad roads where the monarchs are not in evidence. There, at least, they may breathe without drawing in great masses of dust; there they may pursue the even tenor of their way without being shocked from their calmness and there they may indulge in long, long thoughts upon the strange passion for speed.

There are motorists and others who love the changing country, who delight in the splendid fields of grain shimmering in the sunlight or the orchards laden with fragrance and fruit and the trees when the bearing is done for the season. They care vastly more for the homes dotting here and there and for the stray touches of life to be seen than for the mere exhilaration of whirling along through space and the pleasure of making an engine respond to the demand for haste and still more haste all the while.

But, generally speaking, they must drift to the byways to find them, away from the whirling dust and away from the common enemy. For the speeder is a common enemy, a nuisance, a menace,—and everything that is bad.

And the worst of it is, automobilists who are careful and considerate of the rights of others are classed, more or less, with the others.

As for me, I do not wonder so much at the occasional farmer who shakes his fist in the face of the speeder. Quite likely he has lost more than a few chickens that ventured to cross the road, and though they are the most foolish and the least dependable of creatures, they might have been saved to themselves and the farmer if just a little care had been observed. But, to some haste-loving riders, a mere little incident of running over a chicken or two now and then is all in the pleasure of the day, and they send back a smile at the victims and go on their hurrying way.

And what is all the haste for? If their dearest friend went by, they would not know it; if they were passing the most royal castles on the Rhine or the more royal natural scenery they never would guess it; and if something dreadful opened in their path they would be too busy to escape it. For everything must give way to the speed. And, bad as it is, it would not be half so bad if they were the only ones to suffer when things go wrong.

If we might drive the speed-cranks away to nice little roads of their own where they might tear along to their heart's content, then the highways and the sane highway travelers might again come into their own.

The rest of us—sane automobilists, horsemen, merest strollers along the way—would be glad to abide by the rules of the road, pleased to remember that other vehicles than our own, others persons than ourselves, have a right to be considered. And we would be happy indeed to see the last of the terror-spreading invader of our highways.

Shall we, some day?

FRANCES SHAFFER.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Madge—"It's awful to suffer in silence!" Marjorie—"It must be, dear. That is why I'm glad I am a woman and don't have to do it."—Judge.

"Your constituents will be waiting to give you the glad hand, I suppose." "I'm afraid not," replied Senator Sorghum. "Judging by the way they have been writing letters to me a large percentage of them must have pen paralysis by this time."—Washington Star.

"Is my hat on sufficiently crooked?" she asked him. "Yes, my dear, but you have a little too much red paint on the left cheek. I'll tone it down. There, that's better. No, it isn't. Now, there's too much on the right cheek. Never mind. I'll even it up if it takes a week." Later on the lady remarked to her dearest friend: "John is a dear, good fellow, and so thoughtful. But I just felt all the time I was sitting in church that I looked like a chalk-faced ghost."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Physical Impediment.

When J. Edward Grillo lived in Cincinnati, he had a large, fat, tight-fisted friend, who was always urging him to beg money on all sorts of chances. At first Grillo followed the advice invariably, but it became so expensive that he cut it out. The fat friend, however, kept up the urging.

One day, when they were in a crowd, a man about town offered to bet Edward $50 on a proposition. "Take him up! Bet him right away!" exclaimed the fat friend. This was too much for Grillo. "You bet the $50," he said icily. "I paid the doctor for curing your rheumatism, didn't I? I guess you can get your hand into your pocket."—Popular Magazine.

What's In a Name?

Dr. Ladislav Lazaro, representative from the seventh Louisiana district and successor to Arsene Poje, head of the now famous "Money Trust," investigating committee, believes there is a good deal in a name when it comes to running for congress.

Dr. Lazaro is fairly well satisfied that had he run for office under the patronymic of his grandfather he would have been defeated before his friends and neighbors could have mastered the name of their candidate.

The new congressman's real name is Lazaro Bieladonovitch, although he has gone into the records of congress as Mr. Lazaro. His grandfather, a Russian, went to Louisiana with the unpronounceable name, but in succeeding years the French descendants who became his friends and associates gradually eliminated it from their vocabulary and called him Lazaro.

Two generations have now grown up in Louisiana under that name, although cousins and relatives in other parts of the United States still use the paternal name of Bieladonovitch.—Washington Star.

A Bit Inhuman.

Orville Wright was condemning the craze of scientific management. "There was something inhuman about it," he said. "It always reminded me of cruel old Cornelius Husk."

"Old Cornelius Husk entered the general store one day and demanded a setting of eggs."

"Have you got a cluckin' hen?" asked the storekeeper. "No," replied cruel old Corn. "No, I ain't got no cluckier; but a motor cycle run over our old Plymouth Rock and broke her leg, and I thought she might as well hatch out some eggs as lay around doin' nothin'."

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 10, 1914

In deciding a suit over reservation lands, the United States Supreme Court has just held that any Indian with a drop of white blood in him is no longer an Indian, so to speak, but is of "mixed blood," and can sell his lands if he wants to. It takes a lot of study to understand distinctions like this. In this country anybody with a drop of negro blood is classed as a negro, while in Mexico anyone who can prove he has a drop of white blood is a white man, no matter if he be as black as the ace of spades. In the political campaign now approaching we shall behold, as in its predecessors, men trying to get the Irish, German or Italian or Jewish vote by pretending that in their veins run drops of the vital fluid of these various races. One little drop of blood may make or mar a career, according to the prejudices of the community.

Both Prohibitionists and liquor sellers will be equally interested in the opinion, which we print elsewhere, of Chief Justice Bartlett of the Court of Appeals in the Weiner case. It is now the established law that while it is illegal to personally solicit orders for liquor in a dry town, it is legal to advertise such beverages through the mails. If the case were otherwise, it would be what the court describes as "an extraordinary innovation in the criminal law." The courts are always loth to hold a man to be guilty of a crime in a locality which he never visited, as was seen when Roosevelt tried to have a newspaper publisher convicted of libel in a district where some of his papers happened to circulate. This particular decision will certainly have the effect of greatly stimulating the sale of liquor in dry towns and sincere and intelligent temperance people will begin to question the advisability of any town voting no licence. The man with a jug or quart bottle who entertains his cronies on a hay mow or some such place is just as efficient an ally of the Rum Demon as the saloon keeper.

Friends of the "uplift" have long advocated the abolition of the United States Senate on the ground that it does nothing but obstruct the will of the "people." Perhaps, when the pendulum of opinion starts to swing the other way, we shall develop a sentiment in favor of retaining the Senate and abolishing the House. The latter passed the Wilson anti-trust measures last week almost unanimously without the slightest notion of what they meant. The correspondent of the New York Evening Post, in spite of his great friendship for the Administration, is compelled by truth to say: "Some of the members of the House thought they meant one thing, some another, and others were frank to say they did not know what some of the provisions of the bills meant. They were truthful and frank about it, at any rate." This puts the whole burden upon the Senate of licking the bills into some sort of meaning. Now why did the House do this? Because the representatives believe their constituents demand that the trusts be swatted again. In our judgment, this notion is unfounded. There is no demand among the masses for harassing business men any further. The laws as the Republican administration left them are quite sufficient to restrain abuses, and Congressmen who have stabbed at them know not what are in for a surprise when the votes are counted next November.

Employers of labor have been receiving information blanks from the new Workmen's Compensation Commission. They are like the income tax blanks in the respect that it is necessary to call upon a lawyer and a soothsayer for help if one wishes to be sure that they are filled out properly. After the recipient has done his best and sends in the report he gets a notice saying that his application for insurance has been received, although he has made no such application. We like to see people hustle for business, but the State might learn from the experience of private firms that it does not boom trade to try to browbeat possible customers into giving orders. It is highly important, in order eventually to determine the value of premiums, to accumulate statistics, but such statistics will not be very valuable unless the blanks for reports are so constructed that there can be no misunderstanding regarding their meaning. It is impossible to procure any disinterested expert advice as to whether it is better for an employer to insure with the State, with a regular indemnity company, or in a mutual organization. This being so, it seems to us to be the part of good citizenship to choose one of the two latter opportunities, as a protest against the State going into any business which can as well be conducted by private enterprise.

THE SPEEDER.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Out on the great highways, where automobiles, horsemen and occasional pedestrians meet and pass very quickly, there's abundant opportunity for the display of courtesy or of utter indifference, and it is easy enough to tell where the line divides. Automobileists who take their pleasures sanely, horsemen and pedestrians, who are least protected of all, are generally forced to make a showing of courtesy, whether they possess the genuine brand or not. For they never know when a great touring car may come tearing along as if it possessed the right of way and expected all others to hurry to cover; and so they carefully abide by the rules of the road, and if they lean either way, it is on the side of yielding over-much. And it is not so much that they want to yield as that they have a wholesome respect for their own safety.

As a matter of fact, careful users of the public roads think it a pity that they must be forced to yield so much to disturbers of the highway peace who do not stop to consider whether they have room to pass but just flash along, generally in safety, sometimes at serious cost, and always leaving a trail of discomfort in their hurrying path. For their riotous pace is very disturbing to quieter folk.

Sometimes the moderate riders are lost in a cloud of dust stirred up by the big cars wildly rushing ahead and entirely indifferent to consequences; and sometimes they are driven to the far side of the road in mingled fear and resentment. And again, they are forced from the highways entirely, back to the side roads, the back roads, the bad roads where the monarchs are not in evidence. There, at least, they may breathe without drawing in great masses of dust; there they may pursue the even tenor of their way without being shocked from their calmness and there they may indulge in long, long thoughts upon the strange passion for speed.

There are motorists and others who love the changing country, who delight in the splendid fields of grain shimmering in the sunlight or the orchards laden with fragrance and fruit and the trees when the bearing is done for the season. They care vastly more for the homes dotting here and there and for the stray touches of life to be seen than for the mere exhilaration of whirling along through space and the pleasure of making an engine respond to the demand for haste and still more haste all the while.

But, generally speaking, they must drift to the byways to find them, away from the whirling dust and away from the common enemy. For the speeder is a common enemy, a nuisance, a menace,—and everything that is bad.

And the worst of it is, automobileists who are careful and considerate of the rights of others are classed, more or less, with the others.

As for me, I do not wonder so much at the occasional farmer who shakes his fist in the face of the speeder. Quite likely he has lost more than a few chickens that ventured to cross the road, and though they are the most foolish and the least dependable of creatures, they might have been saved to themselves and the farmer if just a little care had been observed. But, to some haste-loving riders, a mere little incident of running over a chicken or two now and then is all in the pleasure of the day, and they send back a smile at the victims and go on their hurrying way.

And what is all the haste for? If their dearest friend went by, they would not know it; if they were passing the most royal castles on the Rhine or the more royal natural scenery they never would guess it; and if something dreadful opened in their path they would be too busy to escape it. For everything must give way to the speed. And bad as it is, it would not be half so bad if they were the only ones to suffer when things go wrong.

vehicles than our own, others persons than ourselves, have a right to be considered. And we would be happy indeed to see the last of the terror-spreading invader of our highways.

Shall we, some day?
FRANCES SHAFFER.

BOARDING HOUSE CLAIMS DECIDED

Awards were made in five cases on Tuesday by Ashokan Business Damage Commission No. 2, composed of Messrs. Ernst, Shea and Merritt, and dismissals were recommended in eight cases in which the gross profits of the claimants were extinguished by charging against the business interest on the real estate and personal property employed in the business and the value of the services of the owner, which charges are necessary to be made under the ruling of the court of appeals in the Bishop case.

In the boarding house cases, where boarders were kept only during the summer season, the commission has credited the owner of the business for the interest on the real estate during the period of the year when the property was used only for household purposes and was not used for business purposes, which is equal to charging interest on the realty for one-fourth of the year; and in boarding house cases where the principal business was the summer business but one or two boarders were kept throughout the remainder of the year, a corresponding proportionate credit is made to the owner, which is equivalent to charging interest on the realty for one-third of the year. The facts are set forth in a brief memorandum filed in each case. The awards were as follows:

Josephine Price, for boarding business; award, $214.68. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Mary E. Scoville, for boarding business; award, $510. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Virgil R. Merrihew, for boarding business; award, $410. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Orra E. Hasbrouck, for boarding business; award, $815. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Eliza Windrum, for boarding business; award, $275. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Angeline Rogers, for boarding business; award, $413.36. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Rachel L. Everett, for boarding business; award, $566.64. Judge Clearwater appeared for the claimant.

The cases dismissed were as follows:

Hewitt Osborn, claim for boarding business.

Sarah E. Van Steenburgh, claim for boarding business.

Sylvester Every, claim for produce, stock raising and poultry business.

John Swartwout, claim for farm produce.

Cornelia T. Williams, claim for dairy and chicken and berry business.

Mary Pieret, claim for boarding business.

Sarah Fenney, claim for boarding business.

John Hogan, claim for chicken, egg, butter and stone business.

BOARDING HOUSE CLAIMS DECIDED

Awards were made in five cases on Tuesday by Ashokan Business Damage Commission No. 2, composed of Messrs. Ernst, Shea and Merritt, and dismissals were recommended in eight cases in which the gross profits of the claimants were extinguished by charging against the business interest on the real estate and personal property employed in the business and the value of the services of the owner, which charges are necessary to be made under the ruling of the court of appeals in the Bishop case.

In the boarding house cases, where boarders were kept only during the summer season, the commission has credited the owner of the business for the interest on the real estate during the period of the year when the property was used only for household purposes and was not used for business purposes, which is equal to charging interest on the realty for one-fourth of the year; and in boarding house cases where the principal business was the summer business but one or two boarders were kept throughout the remainder of the year, a corresponding proportionate credit is made to the owner, which is equivalent to charging interest on the realty for one-third of the year. The facts are set forth in a brief memorandum filed in each case. The awards were as follows:

Josephine Bates, for boarding business; award, $214.68. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Mary E. Scoville, for boarding business; award, $310. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Virgil R. Merrihew, for boarding business; award, $410. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Orra E. Hasbrouck, for boarding business; award, $815. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Eliza Windrum, for boarding business; award, $275. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Angeline Roosa, for boarding business; award, $413.36. Brown & Slosson appeared for the claimant.

Rachel L. Everett, for boarding business; award, $566.64. Judge Clearwater appeared for the claimant.

The cases dismissed were as follows:

Hewitt Osborn, claim for boarding business.

Sarah E. Van Steenburgh, claim for boarding business.

Sylvester Every, claim for produce, stock raising and poultry business.

John Swartwout, claim for farm produce.

Cornelia T. Williams, claim for dairy and chicken and berry business.

Mary Pieret, claim for boarding business.

Sarah Penney, claim for boarding business.

John Hogan, claim for chicken, egg, butter and stone business.

SEVEN DEAD IN TENEMENT FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 10.—Seven persons were burned to death, six fatally hurt and nine others injured in a fire that swept through the five story tenement building at No. 90 Essex street early today. The lives of 200 other occupants were probably saved by Miss Cecelia Shapiro, who discovered the blaze and ran screaming through the hall to give the alarm.

Most of the injured were hurt by jumping from windows of fire-escapes. Within five minutes after the blaze was discovered on the first floor the flames were shooting through the entire structure. Finding their escape cut off many of the building's occupants fled to the roof and were rescued from there by firemen and policemen.

Among the injured is Acting Department Chief Devanny. The stairs by which he was attempting to reach the second floor to help in the work of rescue, collapsed and he plunged down. Prompt action by his firemen saved him from death.

Policemen Wall, Barnett, Nam-mock and Brownworth were the first to reach the building in response to the alarm. They found flames shooting from the upper windows and the fire escapes filled with a screaming mass of men, women and children. They climbed to the roof of an adjoining building and from there extended ladders by which the lives of more than one hundred persons were saved.

The route to safety was a perilous one and many of the women and children became terrified. Disregarding the orders of the policemen many leaped from the fire-escapes. Some escaped with a few bruises, but others struck the pavement with terrific force.

Some of the occupants of the building were unable to leave their rooms and reach the fire-escapes and perished. The bodies of a man and woman found on the third floor showed the desperation with which they had fought to escape. They were found clasped in each other's arms. They had struggled to reach the fire escape, but had been overcome by the smoke and been burned to death.

Abraham Farkis, who lived on the second floor, saved Mrs. Rose Berkowitz, his invalid grandmother, and also took his sister, Stella, safely through the flames.

Jacob Levine rushed to the fire-escape, thinking his family was following. Finding that they were not, he returned and dragged out his wife and son. All three were terribly burned.

One woman gave her life in an attempt to save her baby. The body of the child was found in the ruins of its crib while nearby lay the body of its mother. She had been overcome while attempting to reach the child and had fallen.

BRANCH.

Branch, June 9.—The out of town people and also several residents of this place have so far had very good fishing as it scarcely takes any effort to catch a good mess of brook trout along the head waters of the Neversink.

This perhaps is due to John D. Schoonmaker stocking his fish ponds last fall with trout and during the high water last fall nearly all of the trout found their way to the main waters of the Neversink there being then on screen to keep them in the ponds and from experience any one interested in trout knows they never stay in the owner's ponds when once let loose, but however let us thank Mr. Schoonmaker for the extra good fishing he has provided for us all this spring.

SEVEN DEAD IN TENEMENT FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 10.—Seven persons were burned to death, six fatally hurt and nine others injured in a fire that swept through the five story tenement building at No. 90 Essex street early today. The lives of 200 other occupants were probably saved by Miss Cecelia Shapiro, who discovered the blaze and ran screaming through the hall to give the alarm.

Most of the injured were hurt by jumping from windows of fire-escapes. Within five minutes after the blaze was discovered on the first floor the flames were shooting through the entire structure. Finding their escape cut off many of the building's occupants fled to the roof and were rescued from there by firemen and policemen.

Among the injured is Acting Department Chief Devanny. The stairs by which he was attempting to reach the second floor to help in the work of rescue, collapsed and he plunged down. Prompt action by his firemen saved him from death.

Policemen Wall, Barnett, Nam-mock and Brownworth were the first to reach the building in response to the alarm. They found flames shooting from the upper windows and the fire escapes filled with a screaming mass of men, women and children. They climbed to the roof of an adjoining building and from there extended ladders by which the lives of more than one hundred persons were saved.

The route to safety was a perilous one and many of the women and children became terrified. Disregarding the orders of the policemen many leaped from the fire-escapes. Some escaped with a few bruises, but others struck the pavement with terrible force.

Some of the occupants of the building were unable to leave their rooms and reach the fire-escapes and perished. The bodies of a man and woman found on the third floor showed the desperation with which they had fought to escape. They were found clasped in each other's arms. They had struggled to reach the fire escape, but had been overcome by the smoke and been burned to death.

Abraham Farkis, who lived on the second floor, saved Mrs. Rose Berkowitz, his invalid grandmother, and also took his sister, Stella, safely through the flames.

Jacob Levine rushed to the fire-escape thinking his family was following. Finding that they were not, he returned and dragged out his wife and son. All three were terribly burned.

One woman saved her life in an attempt to save her baby. The body of the child was found in the ruins of its crib while nearby lay the body of its mother. She had been overcome while attempting to reach the child and had fallen.

BRANCH.

Branch, June 9.—The out of town people and also several residents of this place have so far had very good fishing as it scarcely takes any effort to catch a good mess of brook trout along the head waters of the Neverink. This perhaps is due to John D. Schoonmaker stocking his fish ponds last fall with trout and during the high water last fall nearly all of the trout found their way to the main waters of the Neverink there being then on screen to keep them in the ponds and from experience any one interested in trout knows they never stay in the owner's ponds when once let loose, but however let us thank Mr. Schoonmaker for the extra good fishing he has provided for us all this spring.

Business Is As Good As We Make It

The head of a great national industry—a veritable live wire—remarked recently that he could have a panic in his business any time he wanted it.

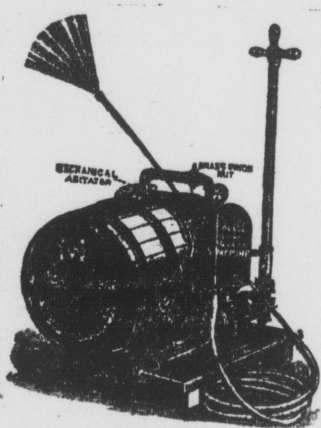

All he had to do was to let up driving and begin to talk hard times.

But instead of doing this, he increases his advertising when things look squally and drives his salesmen harder.

And good times or bad, there has never been a year that his business has failed to go ahead and yield a handsome profit.

This man incidentally practically does all his advertising in the local newspapers, figuring wisely that by making sales for the distributors of his goods, he is paving the way for his own salesmen to get more orders.

The Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, is working to help builders of business build better. Booklet on Co-operation forwarded on request to 306 World Building, New York.

STRIKERS BURN RAILWAY STATIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, June 10.—Resorting to fire, striking workmen spread terror in Italy today. They burned the railroad stations at Imola and Fabriano and disorder was reported from many other places. In order to prevent a condition of anarchy in central Italy martial law has been proclaimed in twenty towns where the Radical Socialists are inciting disorder to gain adherents for the general strike.

In all of these places there have been frequent clashes between the police and the strikers. Tourists are fleeing from the country in droves fearing that railroad service will be completely paralyzed in a short time. During the night the strikers attempted to burn the railroad station at Turin, but were driven away after a fight in which a score were hurt.

Fierce rioting took place today at Carrara, where anarchists called a railroad strike. Prompt action by the authorities prevented the success of the strike there and the anarchists retaliated by attacking the police. The railroad strike has failed except in a few minor centers, but this is due only to rigid precautions taken by the troops who have been placed on guard at the terminals.

The strike continues here and soldiers are patrolling the city to prevent another outbreak of violence such as occurred last night when the strikers marched on the Quirinal. As a result of that clash more than forty soldiers and civilians are in the hospitals.

STRIKERS BURN RAILWAY STATIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, June 10.—Resorting to fire, striking workmen spread terror in Italy today. They burned the railroad stations at Imola and Fabriano and disorder was reported from many other places. In order to prevent a condition of anarchy in central Italy martial law has been proclaimed in twenty towns where the Radical Socialists are inciting disorder to gain adherents for the general strike.

In all of these places there have been frequent clashes between the police and the strikers. Tourists are fleeing from the country in droves fearing that railroad service will be completely paralyzed in a short time.

During the night the strikers attempted to burn the railroad station at Turin, but were driven away after a fight in which a score were hurt. Fierce rioting took place today at Carrara, where anarchists called a railroad strike. Prompt action by the authorities prevented the success of the strike there and the anarchists retaliated by attacking the police.

The railroad strike has failed except in a few minor centers, but this is due only to rigid precautions taken by the troops who have been placed on guard at the terminals.

The strike continues here and soldiers are patrolling the city to prevent another outbreak of violence such as occurred last night when the strikers marched on the Quirinal. As a result of that clash more than forty soldiers and civilians are in the hospitals.

BOARD OF HEALTH SNIFFS JUNE ODORS

Shall Lumber From Ancient Stable Be Used for a House? No Pigs, But Many Other Unpleasant Conditions Discussed, Including the Old Reliable Tannery Brook.

Because the lumber from an old livery stable that is being torn down is to be used in the construction of a building to be occupied as a residence, does that fact constitute a public nuisance? This is the problem that the sanitary committee was given to solve at the regular monthly meeting of the board of health held at the city hall on Tuesday evening. The question arose when Arthur Church, of 176 Wall street, appeared before the board and complained of the "terrible stench" arising from the pile of lumber that had been stacked at the corner of Wall and St. James streets and which is to be used in the erection of a house. It developed that the lumber is taken from the old Kelder livery on John street, which was recently sold by the county and which was purchased by Mr. Leventhal, of Leventhal Brothers, of Wall street, who is having the house erected. Mr. Church said he had appeared in person to find out from the board if there was any way by which Mr. Leventhal could be prevented from using this lumber and that he for one would not like to live in the house when it was completed if the lumber was used. He said that the stench was so bad on Tuesday that he had been forced to close his windows. He said he was speaking in behalf of the neighbors as well as himself and that he believed that it was up to the board of health to remedy conditions and have Mr. Leventhal remove the lumber which was stacked ten feet in the street and is blocking the highway. Mr. Church said that he was always a law abiding citizen but he must confess that the odor had become so strong that he had felt a sneaking desire in his heart to use some kerosene oil and matches on the pile of lumber. He said that he did not believe it was fair or just to the citizens in that vicinity to allow this pile of lumber to remain where it was or to allow it to be used in the construction of a house as contemplated.

Mrs. M. J. Michael reported that she had received a complaint also in regard to this lumber and that the odor was so strong that the neighbors claimed it was impossible to stand it.

The matter was finally referred to the sanitary committee with power. The committee will investigate and if they find that the odor from the lumber is such that it constitutes a public nuisance, the owner will not be allowed to use it for building purposes and will be forced to remove it.

K. of C. Invitation Accepted.

The Knights of Columbus extended a cordial invitation to the members of the board to attend in the safe and sane Fourth of July celebration that was being arranged, and Commissioner McBride moved that such members of the board as could attend should do so, and that the plans have the full approval of the board. Carried.

That Henry Street Vault.

Chauncey Smith of Henry street, who last month entered a complaint against the outside vault on the premises of Charles Brown, 63 Henry street, again appeared before the board and asked what had been done in regard to the complaint.

Sanitary Inspector P. J. Quigley, who had made an inspection of the vault, made a report stating that he had found the vault to be in good condition.

Plumbing Inspector Peter J. Halloran, who had inspected the plumbing in the house, stated that he had found that in first class condition, and said that Mrs. Brown had informed him that she expected to make all improvements and connect up this coming fall.

Mr. Smith said that Mrs. Brown's promise to connect up in the fall was the same old bluff she had given the neighbors for the past three years. Everett Strickland, of 59 Henry street, also appeared before the board and corroborated Mr. Smith.

Soon All Will Connect Up.

Mayor Canfield said that under the new sanitary ordinance of the city that would probably go into effect July 1, all property owners would have to connect up with the sewer and abandon outside vault when there was a sewer through the street.

The matter of the Brown vault was referred to the sanitary committee with power.

That Tannery Brook.

Health Officer Stelle reported that he had again received complaints in regard to the stench given off by the Tannery brook and he had made an investigation and had come to the conclusion that the brook should be cleaned so that pools of water would not form and become stagnant. The matter was finally referred to the street superintendent to have the brook cleaned.

Other Complaints.

Dr. Stelle also reported that he had received a complaint in regard to the outside vault on the property at 42 Shufeldt street owned by E. L. Angle and it was moved and carried that Mr. Angle be notified to abandon the vault by the first of July.

It was reported that the plumbing in the Myers property, 20 Henry street, was defective and not according to the plumbing code and on motion of Commissioner McBride the plumbing was condemned and the owner will be notified to install new plumbing that will meet the requirements of the code and to abandon an outside vault in the rear of the house.

The plumbing in the saloon of James Prusack, 45 Murray street, was also condemned and it was moved that a notice be served on Mathew Krause of 34 Murray street to remedy conditions at once.

Plumbing Inspector Halloran reported in regard to two new houses that had been erected on the Boulevard with plumbing installed that had not been reported to the board and he was instructed to investigate who had installed the plumbing.

A Dumping Ground.

Commissioner McBride reported that neighbors had used the Hutton property on Ardley street for dumping garbage and that neighbors also were dumping garbage and empty cans on Field Court. The matter was referred to the street superintendent with power to clean up and in future if any one is caught dumping on the property the board will take action against them.

Mrs. M. J. Michael reported that the yard back of the Women's Exchange on Main street should be cleaned up and on motion the owner will be instructed to get busy.

To Have Vacation.

The board decided to allow two week's vacation to the officers of the board this summer to be so arranged that only two of the officers were away at one time.

The village of High Falls is getting to be quite a summer resort. Pleasantly situated among the Shawangunk Mountains it is an attractive spot in which to spend the summer. The scenery is picturesque, the climate is healthful, there is an abundance of pure water and there are a number of excellent places where one may secure board.

William Quick's Hotel is considered one of the prettiest hotels in this section of the county, and it is up-to-date. They have the modern improvements and serve good table board. Mr. Quick gives the welcome hand to everyone who comes and makes them feel at home. Always one will notice the coolness of the air which is very welcome on a warm day in summer. Lake Mohonk is a beautiful spot, which is almost impossible to describe is only about four and a half miles from the village and a favorite drive. Often the young people go up on straw loads, spending the day and coming back by moonlight. One person, who had traveled extensively, said that Lake Mohonk was the most beautiful spot he had ever seen. High Falls is certainly a pretty spot. Why not come and spend the summer months in this village. The railroad facilities of the place offer an advantage to the summer guests, as there is a direct connection with New York city, and Sherman's stage meets every train, the station being about a mile from the village. There are a number of pleasant walks and drives, while boating, bathing and fishing are also favorite amusements. One who cares to walk should not fail to visit the Falls, Fair View and the Ice Cave. The latter place is quite a long distance from the village. Parties often take their lunch and spend the day, some preferring driving instead of walking. In the cave ice is found all year around.

BOARD OF HEALTH SNIFFS JUNE ODORS

Shall Lumber From Ancient Stable Be Used for a House? No Pigs. But Many Other Unpleasant Conditions Discussed, Including the Old Reliable Tannery Brook.

Because the lumber from an old livery stable that is being torn down is to be used in the construction of a building to be occupied as a residence, does that fact constitute a public nuisance? This is the problem that the sanitary committee was given to solve at the regular monthly meeting of the board of health held at the city hall on Tuesday evening. The question arose when Arthur Church, of 176 Wall street, appeared before the board and complained of the "terrible stench" arising from the pile of lumber that had been stacked at the corner of Wall and St. James streets and which is to be used in the erection of a house. It developed that the lumber is taken from the old Kelder livery on John street, which was recently sold by the county and which was purchased by Mr. Leventhal, of Leventhal Brothers, of Wall street, who is having the house erected. Mr. Church said he had appeared in person to find out from the board if there was any way by which Mr. Leventhal could be prevented from using this lumber and that he for one would not like to live in the house when it was completed if the lumber was used. He said that the stench was so bad on Tuesday that he had been forced to close his windows. He said he was speaking in behalf of the neighbors as well as himself and that he believed that it was up to the board of health to remedy conditions and have Mr. Leventhal remove the lumber which was stacked ten feet in the street and is blocking the highway. Mr. Church said that he was always a law abiding citizen but he must confess that the odor had become so strong that he had felt a sneaking desire in his heart to use some kerosene oil and matches on the pile of lumber. He said that he did not believe it was fair or just to the citizens in that vicinity to allow this pile of lumber to remain where it was or to allow it to be used in the construction of a house as contemplated.

Mrs. M. J. Michael reported that she had received a complaint also in regard to this lumber and that the odor was so strong that the neighbors claimed it was impossible to stand it.

The matter was finally referred to the sanitary committee with power. The committee will investigate and if they find that the odor from the lumber is such that it constitutes a public nuisance, the owner will not be allowed to use it for building purposes and will be forced to remove it.

K. of C. Invitation Accepted.

The Knights of Columbus extended a cordial invitation to the members of the board to assist in the safe and sane Fourth of July celebration that was being arranged, and Commissioner McBride moved that such members of the board as could attend should do so, and that the plans have the full approval of the board. Carried.

That Henry Street Vault.

Chauncey Smith of Henry street, who last month entered a complaint against the outside vault on the premises of Charles Brown, 63 Henry street, again appeared before the board and asked what had been done in regard to the complaint.

Sanitary Inspector Frank P. Quigley, who had made an inspection of the vault, made a report stating that he had found the vault to be in good condition.

Plumbing Inspector Peter J. Halloran, who had inspected the plumbing in the house, stated that he had found that in first class condition, and said that Mrs. Brown had informed him that she expected to make all improvements and connect up this coming fall.

Mr. Smith said that Mrs. Brown's promise to connect up in the fall was the same old bluff she had given the neighbors for the past three years. Everett Strickland, of 59 Henry street, also appeared before the board and corroborated Mr. Smith.

Soon All Will Connect Up.

Mayor Canfield said that under the new sanitary ordinance of the city that would probably go into effect July 1, all property owners would have to connect up with the sewer and abandon outside vault when there was a sewer through the street.

The matter of the Brown vault was referred to the sanitary committee with power.

That Tannery Brook.

Health Officer Stelle reported that he had again received complaints in regard to the stench given off by the Tannery brook and he had made an investigation and had come to the conclusion that the brook should be cleaned so that pools of water would not form and become stagnant. The matter was finally referred to the street superintendent to have the brook cleaned.

Other Complaints.

Dr. Stelle also reported that he had received a complaint in regard to the outside vault on the property at 42 Shufeldt street owned by E. L. Angle and it was moved and carried that Mr. Angle be notified to abandon the vault by the first of July.

It was reported that the plumbing in the Myers property, 20 Henry street, was defective and not according to the plumbing code and on motion of Commissioner McBride the plumbing was condemned and the owner will be notified to install new plumbing that will meet the requirements of the code and to abandon an outside vault in the rear of the house.

The plumbing in the saloon of James Prussack, 45 Murray street, was also condemned and it was moved that a notice be served on Mathew Krause of 34 Murray street to remedy conditions at once.

Plumbing Inspector Halloran reported in regard to two new houses that had been erected on the Boulevard with plumbing installed that had not been reported to the board and he was instructed to investigate who had installed the plumbing.

A Dumping Ground.

Commissioner McBride reported that neighbors had used the Hutton property on Ardsley street for dumping garbage and that neighbors also were dumping garbage and empty cans on Field Court. The matter was referred to the street superintendent with power to clean up and in future if any one is caught dumping on the property the board will take action against them.

Mrs. M. J. Michael reported that the yard back of the Women's Exchange on Main street should be cleaned up and on motion the owner will be instructed to get busy.

To Have Vacation.

The board decided to allow two week's vacation to the officers of the board this summer to be so arranged that only two of the officers were away at one time.

The village of High Falls is getting to be quite a summer resort. Pleasantly situated among the Shawangunk Mountains it is an attractive spot in which to spend the summer. The scenery is picturesque, the climate is healthful, there is an abundance of pure water and there are a number of excellent places where one may secure board.

William Quick's Hotel is considered one of the prettiest hotels in this section of the county, and it is up-to-date. They have the modern improvements and serve good table board. Mr. Quick gives the welcome hand to everyone who comes and makes them feel at home. Always one will notice the coolness of the air which is very welcome on a warm day in summer. Lake Mohonk that beautiful spot, which is almost impossible to describe is only about four and a half miles from the village and a favorite drive. Often the young people go up on straw loads, spending the day and coming back by moonlight. One person, who had traveled extensively, said that Lake Mohonk was the most beautiful spot he had ever seen. High Falls is certainly a pretty spot. ## ULSTER COUNTY C. E. CONVENTION

Annual Session Held in the Gardiner Reformed Church Was Well Attended and the Proceedings Were Interesting and Uplifting.

The annual and 22d convention of the Young People's Society of the Ulster County Union Christian Endeavor Society opened on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Gardiner Reformed Church. The praise service was led by the Rev. R. P. Ingersoll of Rhinebeck and the devotional exercises were in charge of the Rev. G. T. Hickman of Saugerties.

The first speaker was the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, who took for his theme "The Man in the Moon." Mr. Cole spoke about the environments young people have and how lofty ideals should be set before them. He said one of our ambitions should be to leave behind us a better world when we depart from it than when we came into it, and not like the man who died and made a request that his influence be buried with him. The Rev. Mr. Cole is a forcible speaker and his remarks were highly entertaining.

A vocal solo, "Just for Today," was then rendered by Miss Ida Burnett of Saugerties.

Miss Jennie Van Hoesen of Saugerties then conducted the open parliament and numerous ideas were discussed in regard to the work.

The benediction was then pronounced by the pastor of the church, the Rev. John D. Neander.

An adjournment was taken and the delegates were escorted to Grange Hall, where a bountiful supper was served by the ladies of the church.

The evening session commenced with a praise service led by the Rev. R. P. Ingersoll, who sang touchingly a solo of the "Little Brown Church in the Dell."

The prayer and scripture lesson was in charge of the Rev. J. N. Kugler of Marlborough. The address of welcome was then given by the pastor of the Reformed Church of Gardiner, who in a few well chosen words welcomed the delegates to his church and spoke along the subject of "Efficiency."

The response was returned by the president of the union, Alexander Johnston, of Marlborough. Mr. Johnston, who is a rising young lawyer, very appropriately acknowledged the warm and cordial welcome extended by the Gardiner Society and thanked them for their kind invitation of coming to their church and providing for their entertainment.

Miss Ethel Hull of Kingston sang a vocal solo entitled "Die Out in Me," which was well rendered.

The Rev. A. K. Fuller, D. D., of Kingston and pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church had for his theme "Team Work." Dr. Fuller, who is one of the leading clergymen of Kingston, and who has served many years in the ministry, spoke among other subjects as follows:

Athletics are popular. Crowds watch with bated breath trained teams contest for honors and the best trained team wins. Last year in the great international games the American teams carried off the larger part of the honors because they were best qualified and did the best team work. Athletics teach us in Christian work a good example. The different organizations in a church, and indeed the churches themselves may be regarded as teams "strung together for the faith of the gospel." Better team work is needed. The idea is being applied more and more. Recently twenty athletic Christian students from the University of Pennsylvania, fine specimens of manhood, who had become enthusiastic from hearing Billy Sunday preach, held a religious meeting and converted nearly 1,000 men to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Dr. Fuller said he commended team work to Christian Endeavors. Regard yourselves, each society as Christ's team and pull together for the highest honors, winning a lost world. Three things are necessary for good team work. First, each member of the team must do his best. How long do you think one would be permitted to remain on the ball team or the boat crew who would not put forth his best efforts. We may not be able to do at one time what is possible at another, the conditions may be different, but the best possible under the circumstances is the requirement.

Second, each one must do his best in harmony with all the rest. Every man on the ball team does his own work but in perfect accord with the team. In the boat race, the oars rise and fall together. The fraction of a second's difference might lose the race. So together do they strive that the boat and crew seem one personality. The lack of real union in spirit and purpose in our societies and churches often defeats the best work. Whatever else you do or don't do, work in harmony, "strive together." Again good team work demands that each one does his best in harmony with all the rest for the end which the team contends. The ball team to win the games and the boat crew to reach the goal first. What is it for which the Endeavor team strives for? Not to beat some other society, not to make a show. No, the goal is far higher and nobler. The end for which you labor is nothing less than to help make this world Christian and Christian in the full sense. The mission of Christianity is to put the love of Christ in every heart.

In closing his excellent address, Dr. Fuller said let us go home to our societies and churches to strive together for this noble end. Whatever else we do let us do good team work for God.

At the morning's session the Rev. G. T. Hickman of Saugerties, had charge of the Sunrise prayer meeting and the Quiet Hour was conducted by the Rev. J. N. Kugler. The Rev. R. P. Ingersoll of Rhinebeck, who is well versed in music, had the topic of "Methods in Music."

Miss Jennie A. Van Hoesen, junior, superintendent, of Saugerties, gave her report showing what work is being done throughout the county.

The next speaker was the district secretary, Luther S. Decker, whose topic was: "What C. E. is Doing in Ulster County." He said in part as follows:

Secretary Decker's Address.

The subject assigned to me is one, given no doubt owing to the fact that it is my duty to keep the statistical records of our county organization. To properly answer this, one would have to be endowed with the wisdom that is ascribed to Solomon, yet it is a pleasure to pass on some of the messages received. For in this grand work in which we are engaged it is a good thing to know that the experiences of each one noted, are in a measure the same as the problems confronting all. We often sing:

"We are not divided;
All one body we."

That is true, we are one in purpose and endeavor. Some tasks are too large for some societies but the whole is not too large for the church. The heroes, saints and prophets of all ages lived and died for it. It is Christ's purpose that every society should be enlisted, whether large or small, in the city or in the country, so we should not be discouraged, hopes may be more safely trusted than fears.

"If hopes were dunes, fears may be jars;
It may be, in you smoke concealed;

Your comrades chase e'en now the fiends,
And but for you possess the field."

It is a great duty, this bringing righteousness to pass. Remember, we are here to work "for Christ and the church." Is the battle going against you? Do the forces of evil prevail in your community? Or are you filled with the joy of triumph? Is your society exulting in every chance to serve, or has the horizon closed down and shut in your community until the big world seems nothing? Does the redemption of humanity seem an idle dream or a barren hope, or do you share the divine purpose and accept its challenge? Is your town or city your workshop for realizing the divine plan for the world's redemption? Do you thrill to pray, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth?"

We should strive to have a deeper faith in the Master for whom we are working, and with this we should strive, for this is essential for intelligent work, so in all do not let us forget to study, work, pray and give not alone of our money, but our time and talents as well.

Is Christian Endeavor a help in your place and church? That it is may be gleaned from a few extracts taken from some of the letters received.

"Our society is very much interested in the work, and though not strong in numbers, we have a fine attendance at our meetings. We furnish the church with flowers each Sunday and afterward they are given to the sick. We gave $12 worth of flowers for the Easter decorations and during the winter past had a most successful donation social for the worthy poor."

Another states:—We have inaugurated a prayer meeting previous to our C. E. meeting, and realize we receive a blessing from it."

From a small country society this comes:—We have contributed over $225 to our building fund, besides our society pledged to pay $50 toward our minister's salary. This is what another states:—For a few years we have had no regular settled pastor, but our Christian Endeavor Society has held together and kept things alive. We have paid the running expenses, supplying the pulpit when able, contributed to state and county work and have a small balance on hand at the end of the year."

That the missionary cause is advancing comes from this letter:—"Our society had not been doing anything for missions, until this fall past, when a missionary committee was organized. It was decided to take a collection at each consecration service, and at the end of the year divide the amount received between foreign and domestic missions."

One of the city societies states:—"We have contributed $25.00 to the Y. M. C. A. $20.00 to an orphan home, given to the United Society building fund, and raised a generous amount toward securing a horse and harness for a minister on a mission field."

A minister writes: "My society is in a thriving condition, the meetings being well attended and the members a great help to me in my work."

At Kingston and Saugerties the local unions are both doing excellent work, assisting in many worthy causes. The one at Kingston raising money for the purchase of over 500 Bibles, which were placed in the various rooms of hotels in the city of Kingston, and contributing toward many worthy objects including the "fresh air work at Nyack, also delegates from the Union going out and conducting services in churches where the pastor was away, or they had no regular supply, besides conducting an increase and efficiency campaign and trying to create a greater interest in Christian Endeavor.

From the various reports received, we learn that there are 43 societies in the county, of which 4 have been organized this year, that the total membership amounts to 2,339 they being 1,334 active, 397 associate, 196 honorary and intermediate, 412 juniors, a gain of 715 over the last convention. They have raised during the year the sum of $1,233.30, of which $486 was contributed to missions. That they have not forgotten the work of bringing others to Christ is shown in the fact that there have been conversions reported.

Let us all therefore strive for greater things pressing on and upward endeavoring in all things to do as He would have us do.

The Rev. J. L. Steiner, pastor of the Reformed Church at Ellenville was the next speaker and had for his subject "Day Dreams." He said first catch the vision, then the dream and then the plan which becomes a reality. His talk was a great help to the delegates who received many helpful points.

It is a great duty, this bringing righteousness to pass. Remember, we are here to work "for Christ and the church." Is the battle going against you? Do the forces of evil prevail in your community? Or are you filled with the joy of triumph? Is your society existing in every chance to serve or has the horizon closed down and shut in your community until the big world seems nothing? Does the redemption of humanity seem an idle dream or a barren hope, or do you share the divine purpose and accept its challenge? Is your town or city your workshop for realizing the divine plan for the world's redemption? Do you thrill to pray, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth?"

We should strive to have a deeper faith in the Master for whom we are working, and with this we should study, for this is essential for intelligent work, so in all do not let us forget, to study, work, pray and give not alone of our money, but our time and talents as well.

Is Christian Endeavor a help in your place and church? That it is may be gleaned from a few extracts taken from some of the letters received.

"Our society is very much interested in the work, and though not strong in numbers, we have a fine attendance at our meetings. We furnish the church with flowers each Sunday and afterward they are given to the sick. We gave $12 worth of flowers for the Easter decorations and during the winter past had a most successful donation social for the needy poor."

Another states: "We have inaugurated a prayer meeting previous to our C. E. meeting, and realize we receive a blessing from it."

From a small country society this comes: "We have contributed over $226 to our building fund, besides our society pledged to pay $50 toward our minister's salary."

This is what another states: "For a few years we have had no regular settled pastor, but our Christian Endeavor Society has had together and kept things alive. We have paid the running expenses, supplying the pulpit when able, contributed to state and county work and have a small balance on hand at the end of the year."

That the missionary cause is advancing comes from this letter: "Our society had not been doing anything for missions, until this fall past, when a missionary committee was organized. It was decided to take a collection at each consecration service, and at the end of the year divide the amount received between foreign and domestic missions."

One of the city societies states: "We have contributed $25.00 to the Y. M. C. A. $20.00 to an orphan home, given to the United Society building fund, and raised a generous amount toward securing a horse and harness for a minister on a mission field."

A minister writes: "My society is in a thriving condition, the meetings being well attended, and the members a great help to me in my work." At Kingston and Saugerties the local unions are both doing excellent work, assisting in many worthy causes. The one at Kingston raising money for the purchase of over 500 Bibles, which were placed in the various rooms of hotels in the city of Kingston, and contributing toward many worthy objects including the "fresh air work at Nyack, also delegates from the Union going out and conducting services in churches where the pastor was away, or they had no regular supply, besides conducting an increase and efficiency campaign and trying to create a greater interest in Christian Endeavor.

From the various reports received, we learn that there are 43 societies in the county, of which 4 have been organized this year, that the total membership amounts to 2,329 they bring 1,334 active, 397 associate, 196 honorary and intermediate, 412 juniors, a gain of 715 over the last convention. They have raised during the year the sum of $1,233.30, of which $486 was contributed to missions. That they have not forgotten the work of bringing others to Christ is shown in the fact that there has been conversions reported.

Let us all therefore strive for greater things pressing on and upward endeavoring in all things to do as He would have us do.

The Rev. J. L. Steiner, pastor of the Reformed Church at Ellenville was the next speaker and had for his subject "Day Dreams." He said first catch the vision, then the dream and then the plan which becomes a reality. His talk was a great help to the delegates who received many helpful points.

After enjoying a well prepared dinner, provided by the ladies of the church, the closing session convened with a song. The Rev. John M. Jenkins, Jr., pastor of the Reformed Church had the topic of "Devotion."

STELLO SENT TO DANNEMORA

This morning Judge Hasbrouck sentenced Frank Costello, the young desperado, to imprisonment at Dannemora at hard labor for a minimum term of five years and a maximum term of ten years. Costello on Monday pleaded guilty to an indictment found by the grand jury charging him with holding up and attempting to rob Station Agent Abner Freer at Marlborough. When sentence was imposed by the court Costello started to argue against the imposing of such a heavy sentence stating that he was only seventeen years of age, and was removed from the court by a port, stocky built youth and is said to be a "hard nut." The story of the time was given in full in Tuesday's Freeman.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 10.—Although some issues showed declines in the initial trading the tone was generally strong, with the most important feature the continued scarcity of offerings.

The Inter-metropolitan issues were prominent, the preferred moving up 1/2 to 5/8, the highest point since January 1913. Union Pacific was the strongest of the railroads, moving up 1/2 to 1 1/8. American Smelting was in good demand at an advance of 3/4. Fractional advances were made in Amalgamated and Utah Copper. United States Steel was in fairly good demand and ranged above yesterday's close. Slight recessions were made in Canadian Pacific and Reading. American ruled strong in London. The curb market was steady.

There was little change in prices of the leading issues in the late forenoon although trading continued fairly active. Distillers Securities was strong, moving up 1 1/2 to 17. U. S. Steel declined 1/4. Union Pacific fell 3/4 and Reading 1/2. Amalgamated Copper sold off 1/4. Call money loaning at 1 1/2.

Business was almost at a standstill during the greater part of the afternoon and movements generally consisted of small fractional recessions. New York Central yielded 1/4, and a small loss sustained in Amalgamated Copper which sold at 72. Distillers Securities continued in good demand selling up to 17 1/4. The stock market closed steady. Governments unchanged; other bonds steady.

GEORGE M'QUILLAN IN OLD-TIME FORM

George McQuillan has been performing as hand-axe man and easily in the box as any hurler in the National League. He is entirely regular in the form he displayed when he was with the Phillies several years ago and is going to be a great help to the Pirates in their struggle for the flag. Big Mac is a grand feller and he is in a class with a hit and wins his own game. Mac is expected to be called a veteran pitcher. He is only twenty-five years old, and he is in as good shape as he ever was in his life. Mac and Babe Adams will have to bear the brunt of the Pirates' defense in the box. So far they have been able to get by very easily.

YALE MEN RECEIVE OFFERS

"Long" John Reilly and Harry William Le Gore Expected to Play With Some Big League Team.

Two Yale baseball players will wear big league uniforms within a year. At least they have received several offers and one of them admits that he expects to accept one of the bids.

The pair are "Long" John Reilly, the Yale third baseman, and Harry William Le Gore, who has been called the most promising baseball player who has entered Yale in twenty years. He comes from Mercersburg academy, where he was captain of the baseball, football and basketball teams. He is a shortstop, and has been elected captain of the freshman nine. His home is in Le Gore, Md. He was fullback on the freshman football eleven and made a record as drop kicker. He has received an offer of $4,000 a year from Connie Mack, and is likely to accept the offer after he finishes his Yale career. He is not eligible for the varsity this season, but will have three years at shortstop before he leaves college. He has averaged one home run and three hits in every game yet played for the freshmen.

Reilly is the star of the present Yale team. He is batting for .410 and is a whirlwind at the dizzy corner. He is easily the leading third baseman of the intercollegiate arena. Last year he led the Yale nine at the bat. He has offers from the New York Nationals and Americans, the Philadelphia Athletics and both Boston nines. His home is in Brooklyn, and he is a brother of Barney Reilly, the former Chicago White Sox, and of Jim Reilly, the former Yale halfback and left fielder. Reilly will almost certainly captain the Yale nine next season, after which it is whispered that he will probably be found in a New York uniform. McGraw is said to have made him the greatest offer ever tendered to any college player. He was not inclined to play professionally all this year, rumored to be about $10,000 was made him, but he is said to have led him to think more seriously of this matter becoming a professional.

Don't Want Sacrifice. President Robert R. Hall of the Brooklyn Federal League club, denies that his club has an offer to the Cardinals, members of the intercollegiate club of the American association. It was reported that Cardinal was offered a contract for next year, calling for $10,000 a year. President Hall labeled the story as ridiculous and stated that the club was perfectly satisfied with Bill Bradley as manager.

Federalists Are Laid. The Atlanta Constitution says: "Looking at it from this angle there is no reason why the Federalists should not play good ball this, their first season and weathering the storm of the first season, they will have a regular league in 1915. It is our candid opinion, expressed before, that the Federalists are going to make a go of it and eventually will have to be recognized."

First Game for Giants. Al Damaree succeeded in getting the first victory for the Giants. The chap with the "Ralph Rose delivery," as Jack Miller once put it, is a pitching marvel simply because no one can figure out how he does it. Doing it and getting away with it may be two different propositions but they amount to the same.

Azt With Beaumont. Jake Azt, former White Sox infielder, has been released by the New Orleans club. He will play second base for the Beaumont (Tex.) league club.

GREATEST PITCHER ON EARTH

Lady Funeral Director of Dead Letter Office Hands Post Card to Walter Perry Johnson.

"Gee, Sam, working in the capacity of arbitrator on behalf of American Legion, the other day was called upon to decide 'who is the greatest pitcher in latter day baseball!'"

There was received in the Chicago post office the other day a postal card bearing the following inscription: "To the Greatest Pitcher on Earth." Chicago had been conquered by the problem, as a cursory examination of the records of the Cubs, Sox, and Chicago naturally would indicate.

The post card was sent to the dead letter office, where one of the lady funeral directors, like a good reader for the Nationals, promptly forwarded the card to Walter Perry Johnson. "Smokeball Walter" received the card and has filed it in among the acquisitions of his remarkable career, which include bank stock, railway bonds and gilt-edged mortgages.

BIRDIE CREE HITTING HARD

Diminutive Outfielder Is Banging Ball at Good Rate With International League Team.

Birdie Cree, formerly of the New York Americans, is now playing with the Baltimore team in the International League. Birdie fell off in his hitting while with the Yankees and was let out to the minor leagues. Cree Birdie Cree. was always regarded as one of the leading batsmen in the American League, but his work with the stick last year was a big disappointment to Manager Chance. Cree is banging the ball at a good rate in the International.

Peckinpough Praised. The New York "Sun" rises to remark: "Going over the field situation carefully one cannot discover any shortstop in either big league who excels Peckinpough to any noticeable extent. This chap is about as good as they come, day in and day out, and the New York club would give a fat wad of money for a second baseman of the same caliber."

GEORGE M'QUILLAN IN OLD-TIME FORM

George McQuillan has been performing as handsomely and easily in the box as any hurler in the National league. He has entirely regained the form he displayed when he was with the Phillies several years ago and is going to be a great help to the Pirates in their struggle for the flag. Big Mac is a grand fielder and he is one of the best work-a-bit and wins his own game. Mac objects to being called a veteran pitcher. He is only twenty-five years old, and to him in good shape as he ever was in his life. Mac and Babe Adams will have to bear the brunt of the Pirates' defense in the box. So far they have been able to get by very nicely.

Flies Before They Swarm Over The Premises.

THE straight road to safety lies in clearing out all the rubbish and putting it in covered receptacles, to be carted away by the proper authorities. It is of small use to "swat" flies after they have got possession. Prevention is better than cure. To kill both mosquitoes and flies drain any stagnant water about the place, sweep up the ground dents where mud collect in rainy weather. Remove old pans and pails, boxes and baskets from the back sheds or yard. Do allow the remnants of meals, peels or vegetable offal to remain anywhere near the door. It is necessary only to clean up the cellars, but to that the refuse turned out is carted away to the dump heap, to be burned or otherwise destroyed at once, and to get every vestige of such heap that within calling distance of home.

Let every citizen tackle his share of the cleaning process and reflect that in doing this work he is really consulting well his own health and that of his family as the comfort of his neighbors. There may be and are aesthetic reasons for desiring a slightly city and lots free from litter, and civic pride in giving for a "city beautiful" is a laudable aim. But in urging this civic cleanup the authorities must get down to the logic of hard facts, for this reason their appeal should have the co-operation of all the residents interested in the health of the municipality.

Chinese View of American Women.

The intellect of the American woman is equal, if not superior, to that of men," says Dr. Wu Ting Fong, late Chinese minister to the United States, America Through the Spectacles of a Chinese Diplomat. "American women are good conversationalists, and most of them are eloquent and endow with the gift of gab." One of the cleverest and wittiest speeches I ever heard was from a woman who spoke at a public meeting on a question. They are also good cooks, and their work shows profound knowledge and wide culture. Naturally women cannot be expected to play the fiddle. They exercise great intelligence, and when married they rule the household. It should be mentioned that husbands submit willingly to their rule and gladly obey their commands without feeling that they are oppressed. I would advise any married man who complains of his husband's unruly and unpleasant to take a lesson from the ladies of America."

His Labor Saving Device.

Late Charles H. Britting, proprietor of the New York actors' restaurant known as the "Little Hall" of Broadway, took a keen interest in popular entertainments and movements of all kinds. He thought little of scientific invention and efficiency engineering. One day one of his efficiency engineers said to him:

"You are a fool, and I thought he'd be a fool, but, by jingo, the fellow has a name. He has discovered a labor saving device, and his address will be of great benefit from now on."

"What boy, Blank?" said an actor.

"That labor saving device has been discovered by a boy named Britting."

"An elderly widow?" Mr. Britting answered.

"An elderly widow with a million dollars has consented to marry him."

Living Asparagus Ferns.

Put your asparagus plumosa in a pot, and let it be drooping, give it the salt water treatment. Sprinkle a half-inch-wide table salt upon the earth near the roots. In watering, the salt is carried down to the roots. One treatment is sufficient to bring pronounced drooping in your plant.

Necessity for Belief.

A man lives by believing something. He is not by debating and arguing about things. A sad case for a man in all he can manage to be something he can button in his coat, and with one or the other he can digest. Lower than that will not get.—Carlyle.

balance now in the custody of Cornell University to the treasurer of the state of New York.
Became a law March 16, 1914, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.
The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The treasurer of Cornell University is hereby authorized and directed to pay the legal fees and expenses incurred by it in the action entitled "The People of the State of New York against Brooklyn Cooperative Company and Cornell University," out of the unexpended balance, now in its custody, of the receipts from forestry operations in improving, maintaining and administering the experimental forest in the county of Franklin by the State College of Forestry at Cornell University, and to pay the remainder of said unexpended balance to the treasurer of the state of New York for the benefit of the general fund of the state.
§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.
State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State.
I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.
MITCHELL MAY, Secretary of State.

Kill Flies Before They Swarm Over The Premises.
THE straight road to safety lies in clearing out all the rubbish and putting it in covered receptacles, to be carted away by the proper authorities. It is of small use to "swat" flies after they have got possession. Prevention is better than cure. To avoid both mosquitoes and flies drain off any stagnant water about the place. Fill up the ground drains where mud can collect in rainy weather. Remove all old pans and pails, boxes and baskets from the back sheds or yard. Do not allow the remnants of meals, peelings or vegetable offal to remain anywhere near the door. It is necessary not only to clean up the cellars, but to see that the refuse turned out is carried away to the dump heap, to be burned or otherwise destroyed at once, and to shift every vestige of such heap that is within calling distance of home.
Let every citizen tackle his share of this cleaning process and reflect that in doing this work he is really consulting as well his own health and that of his family as the comfort of his neighbors. There may be and are aesthetic reasons for desiring a slightly city and streets free from litter, and elite cater for a "city beautiful" is a most laudable aim. But in urging this domestic cleanup the authorities simply get down to the level of hard facts, and for this reason their appeal should receive the co-operation of all the residents interested in the health of the municipality.

A Chinese View of American Women.
The intellect of the American woman is equal, if not superior, to that of the men," says Dr. Wu Ting Fang, late Chinese minister to the United States. In "America Through the Spectacles of an Oriental Diplomat," "American women are good conversationalists, and many of them are eloquent and endowed with the gift of gab." One of the cleverest and wittiest speeches I have ever heard was from a woman who spoke at a public meeting on a public question. They are also good writers, and their work shows profound insight and wide culture. Naturally such women cannot be expected to play second fiddle. They exercise great influence, and when married they rule the roost. It should be mentioned that their husbands submit willingly to their tactful rule and gladly obey their commands without feeling that they are servants. I would advise any married woman who complains of her husband being unruly and unpleasant to take a lesson from the ladies of America."

His Labor Saving Device.
The late Charles H. Britting, proprietor of the New York actors' restaurant known as the "Little Hall of Fame," took a keen interest in popular trends and movements of all kinds. Mr. Britting thought little of scientific management and efficiency engineering. He said one day of an efficiency engineer: "Blank is a fool, and I thought he'd go broke, but, by jingo, the fellow has deceived me. He has discovered a labor saving device, and his address will be Easy street from now on."
"Good boy, Blank!" said an actor. "And what labor saving device has he discovered?"
"An elderly widow," Mr. Britting answered—"an elderly widow with a million who has consented to marry him."

Reviving Asparagus Ferns.
Should your asparagus plumosa seem to be drooping, give it the salt treatment. Sprinkle a half-inch-wide circle of table salt upon the earth near the spot. In watering, the salt is carried to the roots. One treatment is usually sufficient to bring pronounced improvement in your plant.

Necessity for B-lief.
A man lives by believing something; not by debating and arguing about many things. A sad case for him when all he can manage to believe is something he can button in his pocket, and with one or the other organ eat and digest. Lower than this he will not get.—Carlyle.

OPINION IN
WEINER CASEPersonal Presence and Solicitation in Prohibited Territory Necessary to Make a Charge of Law Violation Lie.

The opinion in the Weiner case has been received and is given in full as it recites the facts in the case as well as giving the court's view of the case. The opinion in full is as follows:

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF
New York, Appellant, v. Isaac N.
Weiner, Respondent.(Decided June 2, 1914.)
Appeal in behalf of the people from an order of the appellate division of the supreme court in the third department, entered on the 25th day of November, 1912, reversing a judgment of the county court of Delaware county on a verdict convicting the defendant of a violation of the liquor tax law, which order of reversal also dismissed the indictment.

The facts so far as material, are stated in the opinion.

H. J. Hewitt for appellant.

C. L. Andrus for respondent.

Willard Bartlett, Ch. J. The defendant was indicted for violating subdivision K of section 30 of the liquor tax law (Cons. Laws of 1909, ch. 324) which is a misdemeanor "to sell, accept or procure in a town, which a liquor tax certificate is prohibited pursuant to the local option provision of the statute, an order to deliver or send to another, or for another, liquor in any quantity, where the person for whom such liquor is procured resides in any such town."

The indictment alleged that the defendant was a resident and citizen of Kingston, in Ulster county, and set forth facts showing that the town of Andes in the county of Delaware was a town in which a liquor tax certificate was prohibited. It further charged that notwithstanding these facts the defendant on or about the 5th day of March, 1910, willfully and unlawfully solicited, accepted and procured in the said town of Andes an order to deliver or send to one J. D. Frisbee one gallon of whiskey, where the person for whom such liquor was procured, resided in Frisbee, was procured, resided in said town of Andes at the time the said defendant solicited and procured such order. There was a further allegation to the effect that the defendant delivered to the said Frisbee in pursuance of the order so solicited one gallon of whiskey for which he paid the defendant two dollars and fifty cents.

Upon the trial the defendant was convicted and the county court imposed a fine of $200, deferring the imprisonment portion of the sentence until a future time to be brought up upon motion of the district attorney. The appellate division has reversed this judgment and dismissed the indictment.

There was no substantial controversy as to the facts. It appeared without dispute that the sale of the liquor in question to J. D. Frisbee of Andes, a town in which liquor tax certificates were prohibited, was made through the agency of a circular letter and priorities bearing the name of the defendant, a liquor dealer at Kingston, and sent through the mail to Frisbee from his establishment. The mail department of the defendant's business was conducted by his son, to whom he had given positive instructions not to send circulars soliciting custom into no-license towns. Like instructions had been given by the son to his subordinates in the store. It did not appear how they came to be disregarded in this particular instance by the stenographer in the mailing department who admitted sending the circulars to Frisbee; she simply had no recollection about it. The defendant testified that he did not know any circular was sent to J. D. Frisbee in the town of Andes of any character whatever or that any circular was sent to any person in the town of Andes. He relied upon his son to follow his instructions and he had no knowledge or information of any transaction with J. D. Frisbee until this indictment was found.

No attempt was made to controvert the defendant's denial of any personal participation in the transaction. The court held that it was not necessary to prove that he knew anything about it. This appears from the following request to charge and the ruling of the learned county judge thereon:

"Defendant's counsel: We ask your honor to charge the jury that unless they find the acts complained of were committed by the instruction or authority of the defendant and with his knowledge, the defendant should be found not guilty."

"The court: I decline to so charge. The defendant is liable for the acts of his duly authorized servants, agents or employees."

"Defendant excepts."

The case has provoked unusual diversity of opinion in the appellate division. The presiding justice construes the prohibition in the statute as applicable only to cases where the contemplated sale is to one person for the benefit of another person and holds that it is no offense against the law to solicit a resident of a no-license town to purchase liquor for himself. Two of his associates who concur with him for reversal place their vote solely upon the ground that the statute contemplates the personal presence of the offender in the no-license town when and where he solicits the purchase. The other members of the court agree with the construction placed upon the statute by the county judge and vote for affirmance.

The conclusions which I have reached do not precisely and entirely accord with any of the views expressed in the courts below. As subdivision K of section 30 of the liquor tax law is an important provision of that statute, the operation of which is likely to be frequently invoked, I will state these conclusions categorically for the guidance of trial courts in the future if my views shall meet with the concurrence of my associates.

(1) Personal guilt on the part of the offender is necessary to the maintenance of a prosecution under subdivision K of section 30 of the liquor tax law. The defendant must have committed the offense himself or must personally have authorized another to commit it. The case is not like that where a statute requires a particular thing to be done or forbids the failure to do it a criminal offense. There an offender may sometimes be criminally chargeable with the consequences of an act on the part of his servants although he expressly imposed upon them the duty of obedience to the law. Such a case was Commonwealth v. Kelley (140 Mass. 441), where the defendant was convicted of violating a statutory prohibition against screening his liquor store although the illegal act was committed by his bartender in violation of his explicit instructions that an unobstructed view of the premises should be at all times maintained. The doctrine applied in that and similar cases is based upon the assumed intent of the legislature to make the specific act or conduct punishable, irrespective of the defendant's motive or intent. (People v. Werner, 174 N. Y. 132.) Here, however, the prohibition is directed against personal conduct and an intent to do the prohibited act is an essential element of the crime. It was, therefore, error for the learned county judge to refuse to instruct the jury that they should acquit unless they found that the acts complained of were committed with the defendant's knowledge and approval.

(2) Subdivision K of section 30 of the liquor tax law contemplates the personal presence of the defendant or his agent in the no-license town when the purchase of the liquor is solicited. There is nothing in the language of the statute to indicate that the legislature intended such an extraordinary innovation in the criminal law as would arise from the creation of an offense which would render a person liable as a criminal in a town which he might never have visited, simply because he mailed a liquor price list from a distant point in another county to a possible purchaser. Such a construction is aptly suggested in one of the opinions of the appellate division, would make it the duty for any of the large grocery establishments in the city of New York to send its catalogues containing a price list of liquors for sale to their correspondents residing in no-license towns.

(3) I am unable, however, to agree with the learned presiding justice of the appellate division that in order to constitute a violation of the statute it must appear that the purchase was to be for the benefit of some person other than the actual purchaser. I think the word "another" is used in contradistinction to the seller. While there are some grammatical objections to this construction, there are equally cogent objections of the same nature to the other; and it seems to me that it would be narrowing the meaning too much to exclude a case of soliciting custom from one who designs purchasing the liquor for his own use. The solicitation of any resident of a no-license town is forbidden, whether the liquor is to be consumed by him or by some other resident of such town after he gets it.

If the appellate division had merely reversed the judgment in this case, and had proceeded no further, the order would not have been reviewable in this court in the absence of a statement in the body thereof that the court had reviewed the facts and was satisfied with the judgment so far as the facts were concerned. (People v. O'Brien, 164 N. Y. 57.) The appellate division, however, has not only reversed the judgment but it has also dismissed the indictment, thus finally disposing of the prosecution. This course was taken, we presume, upon the ground that it was manifestly impossible upon another trial to establish an essential element of the offense charged, to wit, the presence of the defendant in the town of Andes and the act of solicitation by him personally in that town. The district attorney appears to have made no suggestion that he could strengthen the case in that respect nor does he make any such suggestion in this court. The case, therefore, was one of reversal in which it was neither necessary nor proper to order a new trial. (Code Crim. pro. § 543.) Under these circumstances the dismissal of the indictment seems to have been warranted.

The order of the appellate division should be affirmed.

Werner, Hiscok, Collin, Cuddeback, Miller and Cardozo, JJ., concur.

Order affirmed.

MENKE'S DAILY

SPORTS REVIEW

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 10.—Ever since Charlie White decorated Willie Ritchie's countenance and battered his frame work, a lot of persons have been assuring each other that Willie is a fluke champion, and that the very next time White gets the champion into the ring he will snatch the laurel from the Ritchie dome and take it into himself.

All of which causes us to remark just now that Ritchie, in condition, is the peer of any lightweight in the world, and that if he meets the rushing Chicago Hebrew once again he'll win, and by a margin so wide there'll be no cause for doubt.

Ritchie, to his own great credit has offered no alibi for the beating White gave him. But his trainers have come along with a pair of them, and those who saw Ritchie in the White fracas said he was the same man that twice beat Wolgast and defeated Tommy Murphy and Leach Cross in such a whirlwind manner.

Ritchie's trainers claim that the champion entered the ring when he was suffering from a raging fever and from intestinal trouble that left him in no condition to fight. But instead of taking to his bed Ritchie insisted upon going through with the bout rather than disappoint the fans.

The second alibi is that Ritchie underestimated White's ability to take punishment. Knowing that he couldn't go at top speed for ten rounds, the champion began rushing White at the tap of the song in the first round, hoping to beat him into unconsciousness by a fusillade of blows. But the Hebrew absorbed the beating and then when Ritchie, because of waning strength was forced to slow down, White had enough recuperative power to "come back" after the fourth and give the champion the worst beating of his career.

Ritchie forced the fighting in the early rounds of the White set-to, something he never has done before. But he forced it merely because he figured that his condition was such that even if he went along on the defensive during the early part, he would be too weak at the finish to do much damage. He "dozed" it that White couldn't stand up under his whirlwind attack in the early rounds. But he "dozed" it wrong because illness had weakened his punching power.

However, if Ritchie fights White again it's a cinch that he'll be sure of perfect physical condition, and he'll be sure not to carry the fight to White. Those who are terming Ritchie a "cheese champion" these days should bear in mind before betting against the William that a punch delivered by Ritchie when he's an indisposed person is one thing and one delivered by him when he's in perfect fighting condition is something else again.

There is no denying that White is a wonderful fighter. His most enthusiastic supporters call him the best lightweight battler in the world. But the unprejudiced fans who have seen both Ritchie and White at their best say that the champion stands far above the Chicago boy in real class.

But this thing is certain, White's Milwaukee showing demands that he get an early chance against Ritchie on the coast or somewhere where decisions are permitted. White and his friends think he certainly will win. And that's the way Jack Munroe and his friends once thought. Munroe, as many may remember, ambled onto a western stage some years ago when Jeffries, in his prime was offering $100 or so to all gent who could face him and keep on facing him for four rounds. Munroe, an unknown miner, not only lingered four rounds but gave Jeffries, then at the height of his career, just about as beautiful a beating as White gave Ritchie. And then Munroe made the mistake of his life. He challenged Jeff to a regular fight, and Jeff accommodated him.

Jeff, in his exhibition scrap with Munroe, underestimated his opponent in the same way that Ritchie did with White. But in his regular fight with Munroe he played a different game. And he said that Munroe hasn't yet recovered from the terrific beating the then champion gave him in the second meeting.
